Alchemy of Thought Ozer Ucuran Ciller

The author continues his quest to discover and know the Creator, and to align his Islamic-originated religious beliefs with the discoveries made by philosophers and scientists. In this work, Ciller differentiates between 'mind' and 'thinking' as he concludes that energy and information are the keystones to the universe and that resonance is the communication channel by which information is shared between man and the Creator. This science-based text is directed towards those who are searching for proofs to the spiritual questions they pose.
